

I went to the park with my daughter on Sunday. We went to Tsukisamu park on my bicycle. I knew it was going to be cold, but neither of us expected¹ it to be that cold. It was almost empty. We went on the slide and got wet bottoms². We were going to have a picnic, but it was freezing³, so we went to Seiyu and had a picnic in their rest area. Then I gave Niko my coat to wear over her coat and we cycled home. I cycled as fast as I could to keep warm. When I got in I couldn't turn the key in the lock. Ha ha. What a wonderful day.

Fiskars Scissors Turn 50

Last week, Fiskars orange handled¹⁰ scissors turned¹¹ 50. The scissors were designed in 1967 in Finland. They were made by a man called Olof Backstrom. Scissors had existed¹² for thousands of years, but they had always been heavy and unwieldy¹³. Backstrom set about to redesign them. Fiskars, the company, started in 1649 and was an ironworks¹⁴. They made regular¹⁵ scissors.

The first thing Backstrom had to do was make them lighter. He did this by using plastic and stainless steel. Up until 1967, most of the scissors in the world were made of heavy iron¹⁶ and were used by tailors¹⁷ or factory workers. Most houses did not have a pair. Backstrom used pressed¹⁸ steel blades, connected¹⁹ in the middle by one piece of metal. The orange plastic handles were ergonomically²⁰ shaped.

The teachers are doing demonstration classes on Wednesday afternoon. That means you get a holiday. I have to teach all of the teachers how to use the English Lounge. That should be fun.

This made the scissors both lighter and cheaper. Soon, other companies used the idea and scissors were mass produced²¹. Fiskars alone has sold over a billion pairs of their orange handled scissors. Now, there are scissors for every situation, safety scissors for children and even left handed scissors for lefties²². I wonder what the next scissor innovation²³ will be.

"For if we live, we live to the Lord, and if we die, we die to the Lord. So then, whether we live or whether we die, we are the Lord's."

- Romans 14:8

Romans 14:8¹

This verse means that no matter what we do, where we go, or what happens to us, the Lord Jesus is always with us. We never have to face hard times alone, because Jesus is always by our side. Even when we die, we don't have to be afraid², because Jesus is there. Doesn't that make you feel relieved³? So, let's look forward to⁴ our lives and enjoy where Jesus takes us!
