

11/7/2016 (#26 this year)

I've gone with a baseball theme¹ for this week's English News. Although², to be honest³ with you, I'm not really a baseball fan. I like watching the big matches like the Japan Series, but I'm not usually interested in baseball. The same goes for soccer. I love the World Cup, but I don't watch the regular⁴ matches. My wife loves soccer. She screams⁵ so loudly when Japan score a goal that she scares our cat half to death⁶ and my daughter starts to cry. I still have scratch marks⁷ in my leg from the last game because the cat was sleeping on my lap⁸ at the time.

Something You Didn't Know (Goats⁹)

- Goats were one of the first animals to be tamed¹⁰ by humans, about 9,000 years ago.
- Goat meat is the most consumed meat¹¹ in the world.
- Goats can be taught their name and they come when called.
- Their lifespan¹² is about the same as a dog.
- Each goat has a unique¹³ call and scent. This is how they are recognized by¹⁴ their mother.
- Goat's pupils¹⁵ are rectangular¹⁶, not round like ours. This enables¹⁷ them to see up to 320° around them without having to move. Humans can see about 200°.
- Goats are herd¹⁸ animals and will become depressed¹⁹ if they are on their own.
- Goats are very good climbers and can climb trees and even rock walls.
- The average²⁰ goat gives birth to two kids²¹ a year.

2 Baseball Teams Win!

Last week two baseball teams on two different continents²² claimed a victory²³. The Hokkaido Nippon Ham Fighters won the Japan Series and the Chicago Cubs won the World Series. (It is called the World Series but in reality²⁴, only teams from the USA take part. When the name was coined²⁵ people hoped baseball would become a worldwide game but it never did.)

The Nippon Ham Fighters managed to²⁶ beat the Hiroshima Carp by 10 runs to 4. This was the first time they won the championship since 2006, a gap of ten years. The Chicago Cubs managed to beat the Cleveland Indians by 8 runs to 7. This was the first time they had won since 1908, a gap of 108 years. Both teams were obviously²⁷ extremely²⁸ happy.

The Cubs had to overcome²⁹ a curse³⁰ to win their victory. The curse was apparently³¹ put on them by an inn³² owner in 1945. He went to watch a game with his pet goat. His goat smelled so bad that fans complained³³ and he was asked to leave. On the way he cursed the team and said they would never win another World Series. They did, but it took a long long time. The curse is known as the "curse of the billy goat".
