

6/26/2017 (#11 this year)

Mr. Anizaki was cutting the grass in the garden last week, and the smell of freshly cut grass¹ wafted² up through my classroom window. It really took me back³ to my childhood. In Japan, it is quite rare⁴ to have a garden, and very rare in the center of the city. In the UK, most houses have a garden and in the summer, especially⁵ on Sunday, everyone goes out and cuts the grass. The smell of cut grass reminds⁶ me of England and my childhood. I had a very strong moment of nostalgia⁷. You are all still young, but I wonder what smells you will remember when you are older.

Something You Didn't Know (Elephants)

- 1. Baby elephants weigh about 120kg. Adults can be 4m high and weigh 7,000kg.
- 2. Elephants can live until they are 70. One elephant in a Chinese zoo lived to be 83.
- 3. An elephant's trunk⁸ has over 150,000 separate muscles⁹. It is strong enough to lift 350kg and delicate¹⁰ enough to pick up a single grain of rice¹¹. It can also hold 8.5L of water.
- 4. Elephants have to eat about 250kg of food every day. This can take them up to 16 hours. They only sleep for about 3 or 4 hours a day.
- 5. Elephants can grieve¹² for dead elephants, even years later, and care for young that are not their own. They can also cry and feel sadness.
- 6. Elephants are not scared of mice. However, they are scared of ants and bees. Farmers in areas that have a lot of elephants put beehives¹³ around their fields.

Announcements

Not a lot happening this week. The student teachers finish on Friday. They have been here for three weeks. I am sure they are all tired, but it was a great experience for them.

Elephants Save Drowning Calf

Last week, two elephants managed to rescue¹⁴ a drowning¹⁵ calf¹⁶. It happened in Seoul Grand Park Zoo in South Korea. Footage taken from the zoo's CCTV¹⁷ camera has been released and has gone viral¹⁸ on the Internet. The video starts with a mother elephant and her calf drinking water from the drinking pool in their enclosure¹⁸. Suddenly the calf slips and falls into the water.

The drinking pool is very deep and the calf is too young to be able to swim and too small to be able to reach the bottom and walk. It looks like the calf will drown. The mother tries to pull the calf out with her trunk, but she cannot. Another elephant runs over and tries to help as well, but they still cannot pull the calf out. It looks like the video will have a sad ending. Then one of the elephants has an idea.

They run round to the far side of the pool, jump in and rush¹⁹ to the calf. Between them, they are able to lift it out of the water and save it. Yeah! So why did this go viral? Probably because the video shows elephants problem solving²⁰, working together as a group, and showing care for calves that are not their own. All behaviors²¹ that we think are uniquely human²².

Hello everyone! This is the last week of June. That means the year is already half over. Time flies¹ when you're having fun! Has 2017 been a good year for you so far? If not, don't worry. You still have time to turn things around²! - Krystal

This week's teacher interview is with Ms. Mao Ogawa. She is a student teacher and teaches English to 1A and 1B. She was also a graduate of this school. What did she say in her interview? Let's read on to find out!

Q: What do you do in your free time?

A: I usually watch movies. I like love stories the best. My favorite movie is Twilight.

Twilight is a love story between a girl and a vampire.

Q: Who is your favorite celebrity?

A: I like Lady Gaga, because she had a hard time when she was young but now she tries everything and she became really famous.

Q: What do you like about Hokusei?

A: I love the students! They're so friendly and they always try really hard.

Q: How is university life different from high school life?

A: In university, I have to think about my life a lot deeper than I did in high school. It's a good time to think about our future.

Q: Why do you want to be a teacher?

A: Because I really love learning English, so I want students to know how fun it is to learn English!

Q: Finally, what advice do you have for Hokusei students?

A: So before I said that students are really friendly, but some are shy around foreigners. So they should be more positive and try to speak English with many people more and more. \star

English Speaking Celebrities 🔶

This week's celebrity profile is on Gigi Hadid. She is an American supermodel. She was born in Los Angeles, California on April 23, 1995. Her father is a Palestinian³-American real estate⁵ developer, and her mother is a Dutch⁴-American former⁶ model.
